

CARRIGAN

Formed during 2000 in the idyllic hills of northern Vermont, this remarkable duo has evolved from jazz-inflected instrumental experimentation to vocally-driven songwriting over washes of atmospheric textures, orchestrated samples, and progressive rhythmic structures. Young Men Never Die is the follow-up to the band's self-titled 2001 debut. Carrigan's long-awaited new album was recorded with Daryl Rabidoux (The Cancer Conspiracy, Drowningman) over several years, in a variety of environments and spaces throughout the city of Burlington, VT. The album was mastered by Roger Seibel (Tortoise TNT, Sunny Day Real Estate Diary, Modest Mouse The Lonesome Crowded West) at SAE in Phoenix, AZ.

With 10 songs and 52 minutes of gorgeous music, it's one indie album not to be missed this year.

Two years in the making, Carrigan's latest CD is a major achievement for its creators... an ambitious collection of tunes rich with detail and ingenuity.

Brilliant. 9/10
